COAST-CLIPPINGS.

Paradise Valley now has a school bell.

Cattle on the Coquille are being sold for an average price of $15 per head.

There are four feet of snow on the mountains between Astoria and Nehalem, rendering transit of mails impossible.

Nearly every newspaper in the State denounces the new scheme adopted in San Francisco for gambling in wheat.

Contractors are paying $3.35 per day for teamsters, and $2.50 for stock men, at the railroad camps along the Barbacomah, A. T.

The Appeal says: The shell of the building opposite the Ormsby House, destroyed by fire nearly eight months ago, is a disgrace to the city.

Bunkett Young, residing near Lewisville, Polk county, Oregon, was badly gored by a cow he was leading. He was carried on the horns of the animal about twenty steps.

Complaint is being made that dead cures and cats are permitted to lie on the streets of Virginia until they are either eaten by the dogs or ground to dust by passing vehicles.

Several of the "too utterly utter" young men of Carson and Virginia City says the Appeal, wear corsets, pencil their eyebrows and use powder and rouge for their complexions. The darlings!

In Chico, a few days ago, a white woman, named Carrie Fisher, was fined $25 for smoking opium. Posa like offense, at the same time and place, two brothers, named Fairchild, were sent to jail for thirty days.

The Winnemucca Reduction Works, after a run of nearly seven months, were shut down yesterday for repairs. Teams are engaged in hauling ore from the Keystone mine, and there is sufficient ore on hand to run a month or two.

The Blakely Mill Company, W. T. will soon have its new large circular saw—the largest on the coast—in position and at work. This will give the mill, in addition to other new appliances, a cutting capacity of something like 200,000 feet every 24 hours.

Three Chinamen left Pinal, A. T., recently, in a wagon for Phoenix. One had been for a year in the William's Hotel, Silver King, and had about $600 with him, another was a vegetable peddler, the third unknown. Nothing was heard of them, until last week, when the bodies of two of them were found ten miles from Willow Station.

At Woodland, Cal., H. L. Patterson, a German farmer, has been arrested on charges of incest and murder. His sister Lena, his partner in guilt, was also arrested. Lena gave birth to a child a short time ago, with the murder of which they are both charged. They deny their guilt, and say the child died a natural death and was buried privately to avoid scandal.

On Thursday afternoon the boilers at the new mill at Lewis were heated up, and about forty pounds of steam raised. The engine was started and moved off smoothly, and without a hitch. The engine run a couple of hours to the perfect satisfaction of all concerned. During the trial of the engine, L. M. Pugh of the Lewis Hotel, made his appearance with a basket on one arm and a couple of boxes of cigars under the other.

MOLINE, Ill., July 14, 1881.

H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y. GENTLEMEN: Your remedy, the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has been used by both my wife and myself. She used it on general principles, as a system and liver regulator; I took the medicine for a long-standing liver trouble, which has been the source of much inconvenience, and which failed to yield to the doctor's remedies, or any other. Until I used your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. We both unite in pronouncing it to be the best medicine ever used, and in recommending it to others as a safe remedy.

Wm. H. Warner

Mayor of Moline, Chicago, May 30, 1881.

H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y. My dear Sir: I have used your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and I have not known what it is to be free from my family physician attributed all my suffering to a diseased condition of my kidneys, and after he had failed to give me relief, I tried your remedy, and I feel well again today.

BELL TONGUE SYRUP,

AN ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY OF great value.

An Inestimable Benefit to Mankind.

UNCLE BEN JO'S

GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN PA ACEA.

UNCLE BEN JO was born in Boston in 1800. Being a botanist, he collected many wonderful cures with roots and herbs. In 1844 he went to South America to study botany, and while there he discovered the great medicinal discovery. The natives of this country were quite familiar with it, and had always supposed it to be a poisonous herb, which they used for the purpose of keeping snakes away from their tents or houses. This they did by laying it in a circle about the same at a proper distance off. This herb, Uncle Ben Jo, as well as the natives, considered a very obnoxious and poisonous one, and when green and fresh it threw off a very distasteful and repulsive odor. The herb grows about two feet high, and about eight inches of the top part of its stalk is leafless, and this part looks over and hangs downward, perpendicularly, and from its curved neck to its end it increases in size, and on the end of the same is a large, burly-looking bell, which stalk and bell, in this hanging position, looks precisely like the tongue of a bell. Hence Uncle Ben Jo named it the Bell Tongue Plant. In South America this herb is only found in the extreme interior of the country, and the natives there call it "Zarr Noto." It is a wonderful cure of fevers and liver diseases, dyspepsia, neuralgia and rheumatism. We have a whole library full of testimonials. Sold by O'BRIEN & SHOEMAKER, Reno, Nev.

THE BILL AS PASSED.

The long contest in the United States Senate over the Chinese Bill, after extending throughout its eighth legislative day, was brought to a triumphant conclusion last evening by the rejection of all injurious amendments and the passage of the measure by a decisive majority of nearly two to one.

The details of the day's proceedings, including as full a synopsis as time and space will permit of, the notably brilliant speech of Senator John F. Jones, are given in the reports. An analysis of the final vote shows that 29 were recorded in favor of the bill in the shape in which it passed, and that 15 were recorded against it, leaving 14 members of the Senate unaccounted for.

It is simple justice to add that all the Pacific coast Senators have from the first labored unceasingly, in private as well as in public, to gain the victory, and that without their earnest, intelligent and able efforts, of every description, the bill would certainly have been shorn of its most vital features, or defeated outright. It only remains to be mentioned on this point that Miller's management of the bill throughout the various stages of the discussion, aided by the tact and good judgment of Farley and Jones, as his chief advisers, has been all that could be desired. Jones' speech, which brought the debate punctually to a close yesterday, and which was wholly extemporaneous, is regarded as one of the ablest Senatorial efforts of recent years. It was listened to by the full Senate with close attention from the beginning to the end. At the conclusion Jones received an ovation of congratulations and compliments from the Senators. On every hand, including even Horace of Massachusetts, who had been made to suffer the most from his quickly showered blows of relentless logic and good-natured tyranny.

The bill as passed differs from the measure reported by the Foreign Relations Committee, and telegraphed January 27th, only in the following particulars: It is to go into effect in 90 days after the enactment instead of 60. The second section is amended to make the fine not more than $500 for any master of a vessel who shall knowingly bring to this country any Chinese laborer during the period of suspension. The fourth section is amended by providing that the certificate of registration of those who reside in the country on the 17th of November, 1890, and who have since gone to China, shall be properly vided by endorsement of the proper diplomatic representative or consul of the United States, as required in the case of pass-ports.

By the fifth section of this Act, the last fourteen words of the fifth section, were stricken out on motion of Brown, of Georgia, as superfluous. They provided that pass-ports should be produced to proper authorities of the United States, whenever lawfully demanded.

The fifth and sixth sections are also amended by providing that the requisite signature of the bearer of the pass-ports or of a Chinaman to be registered may be made by his mark if attended by a competent witness. The fourteenth section is amended by providing that the removal of Chinamen from a district which they have unlawfully entered shall be to the place from whence they came.

Finally, the following important sections are added to the Bill, the first being Farley's amendment and the second Grover's:

Section sixteen—That hereafter no State Court or Court of the United States shall admit Chinese to citizenship, and all laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Section seventeen—That the words "Chinese laborers" wherever used in this Act shall be construed to mean both skilled and unskilled laborers and Chinese engaged in mining.

The Exchange says Gen. Rosecrans talks too much.

POOR BOARDMAN.

The Index walls over a martyr as thus:

The Virginia Chronicle very properly asks what the people of Washoe county propose to do as concerns ex-Senate Senator Boardman, whose record in the Senate as a staunch friend of the people is of the very best. It should be answered that he will be allowed to take a rest so far as the Republicanism represented by the Reno Journal and GAZETTE is concerned. He is not "hankered after" by the Central Pacific or Virginia & Truckee Railroad Company. That's what's the matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Senator Saunders, of Nebraska, yesterday submitted a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution allowing the people to elect Postmasters, Internal Revenue officers, United States Marshals and District Attorneys. Our frequent elections are a serious drawback on us already, and if more are added to the list it will be so much worse. We believe the records will show that appointed officers, such as Marshals, Postmasters, etc., have given better satisfaction than elected ones, like County clerks, Assessors, etc.

The San Francisco Chronicle says the present standing of Edmunds in the Senate is not a whit lower than Webster's was at his best day.

The Call and Chronicle both published the death of Rev. Hugh Gallagher, Wednesday. He still lives.

An interesting letter in another column shows the striking difference between the coast climate and ours.

WESTERN TELEGRAMS.

At Omaha Last Night.

OMAHA, March 9.

The strikers and labor union are flushed with the victory of their raid on the "scab" laborers, on the grading, yesterday, and in a secret meeting, to-day, they seriously contemplated sacking the Burlington Missouri railway depot and office and the daily Herald office, and at one time decided on such an outrage, but subsequently reconsidered it. The railway company has the offices and depot barricaded and watched to-night, and the city is in a state of considerable uneasiness. The authorities are preparing to cope with the strikers, but will probably wait for the arrival of troops. Before the resumption of work, an attempted meeting was held by the strikers to-night, at which they developed the policy of representing to the State authorities that there is no cause for calling out militia, and that bringing troops here will tend to create bad feeling, and may lead to a collision.

An Ineffectual Measure.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.

Mayor Blake this morning called a meeting of the Board of Supervisors and vetoed the Fish water ordinance. In the message he states that while the rate established by the ordinance will effect a small reduction in meter rates they will not reduce the rates actually charged. His pledge was to reduce rates heretofore collected and he intends to abide by it.

An Easy Death.

LAKEPORT, March 10.

Mascus and Jeff, the two Indian murderers of John Hendrey, in January last, have just been executed. An enclosure was built adjoining the jail, some eighteen feet high. Within this was erected a double gallows, at the entrance to the enclosure from the Sheriff's office. At 1:30 P. M. the drop-bell sounded. Both bodies had a square fall, and death seemed easy.

A Great Mistake.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.

A special from Bayou Sara says Point Coupee levee, three miles above here on the west bank of the river, gave way last night. This is a new levee, not yet finished. Yesterday the citizens cut the old levee in front of the new works, for the purpose of letting the water against the new levee. The cut became some two hundred feet wide, and the water rushed with such force against the new levee that about 50 feet of it were swept away. The break in the new levee is to day three hundred feet wide, and increasing. This will flood a portion of the false river country, and increase the volume of water from Morganza, and affect the best lands west of Baton Rouge. The only spot in the levees in front of New Orleans, about which any anxiety is felt, is just above the railroad depot at Carrollton. A guard is maintained there constantly at the head of Canal street. The gauge shows the river to be still 7 and 8 inches below the high water mark.

An Official Opinion.

WASHINGTON, March 10.

Secretary Lincoln received a telegraphic report from Captain Lee in regard to the damage and suffering caused by the floods in Mississippi. The overflow is the most disastrous and wide-spread that ever occurred and the resulting destruction correspondingly great.

TO-DAY'S NEWS

Press Dispatches to EVENING GAZETTE.

EASTERN.

The Closing Talk.

WASHINGTON, March 10.

Miller of California briefly opposed Farley's amendment as unnecessary and not germane to the bill. He also replied to a criticism upon the communications addressed to the Senate in support of the bill by the people of California, asserting their constitutional right to be heard by petition. Harris said he appreciated the necessity of restricting Chinese immigration, but desired that the bill should strictly conform to the treaty requirements and be so perfected that the questions arising under it might enable it to pass the ordeal of judicial scrutiny. Sherman, referring to the passport system, said the bill adopted some of the most offensive features of European despotism. He was averse to hot haste in applying the policy so foreign to the habits of our people, and regarded the measure as too sweeping in many of its provisions and as reversing our immigration policy. After remarks by Ingalls, Farley, Maxey, Brown and Teller the amendments of Farley and Grover were adopted.

The chair (Davis, Ill.) created no little merriment by announcing: "The noes are loud, but there are not many of them." The bill having been reported to the Senate from the Committee of the Whole, Ingalls again moved to limit the suspension of the coming of Chinese laborers to ten years. Jones (Nev.) said this limit would hardly have the effect of allaying the agitation on the subject, as the discussion would be resumed in two or three years, and ten years, he feared, would not even be long enough period to enable Congress, intelligently, to base upon it any future policy. Miller, of California, also urged that a shorter period would not measurably relieve the business interests of the Pacific Slope, inasmuch as while the immigrants who were so much desired would not come there if they believed the Chinese were to be again admitted. The amendment was lost—20 to 21.

The question recurred on the final passage of the Bill. Edmunds closed the debate. He said he would vote against the bill as it now stood, because he believed it to be an infraction on good faith, as pledged by the last treaty, and because he believed it injurious to the welfare of the people of the United States, and particularly to the people of the Pacific Coast, by preventing the development of our great trade with China. A vote was taken and the bill passed, yeas 29, nays 15. Senate then adjourned.

Some of Jones' Remarks.

WASHINGTON, March 10.

Jones expressed his belief that if left alone to maintain a government, the negro would gradually retrograde and go back to the methods of his ancestors. "This," he added, "may be heresy, but I believe it to be truth. If, when the first ship load of African slaves came to this country, the belief had spread that they would be the cause of political agitation and civil war, and the future had been foreseen, would they have been allowed to land? How much of this country would now be worth preserving if the North had been covered by Africans as South Carolina is to-day. In view of their non-assimilation characteristic the wisest policy would have been to exclude them at the outset. So we say of the Chinese to-day, and for the greater reason that their skill makes them more formidable competitors than negroes. Subtle and adept in manipulation, the Chinamen can be put into almost any kind of a factory. His color is as obnoxious to us, and as impossible for us to assimilate with as was the negro race. His race has outlived every other because it is homogeneous, and for that reason alone. It has imposed its religion and peculiarities upon its conquerors and still lived. If immigration is not checked now, when it is within manageable limit, it will be too late to check it. What do we find in the condition of the African race to induce us to admit another race into our midst? It is because the Pacific coast favors our own civilization, not that of another race, that they discourage the coming of these people. He believes in the homogeneity of our race, and that upon this depends the progress of our institutions and everything else on which we build our hopes.

Taking Every Precaution.

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.

It is officially requested that owing to the danger of wheel waves, pilots and captains of steamboats pass as far away as possible from levees at exposed and threatened points, and run slowly and carefully. It is also requested that steamboats cease running altogether for the present in Bayou La Fourche. A dispatch from Bayou Sara says two bad breaks occurred in Pointe Coupee levee, endangering a large district of valuable sugar plantations.

The "Sun" Still After Garfield.

CHICAGO, March 9.

The Times says: Some time during the last political campaign a paragraph was published which said General Garfield had during the war preferred charges of a serious character against his old commander, General Rosecrans. Charles A. Dana made the original charges, and this brought out a note from General Garfield to Rosecrans in which he distinctly said he had never been untrue to his commander in word or thought, Dana or any other liar to contradict. Mr. Dana to sustain the original statement, has printed a confidential letter from General Garfield, addressed to Salmon P. Chase, during the war. This letter, if genuine, gives the direct lie to Garfield, and for that reason has attracted much attention here, as it shows him in the light of a double dealer and false friend. It is said that Fitz-John Porter is partially responsible for the publication of this letter. It has irritated General Rosecrans, who is a member of this Congress. He says that if he had known of the letter at the time he would have had General Garfield court-martialed.

In this connection the Evening Critic prints the following: A well founded story has been current for some days in '92, shortly after General Rosecrans had been removed, the late Francis P. Blair, Sr., gave a dinner in Washington to his son Frank P. Blair, Jr., then just from the victorious field of Vicksburg, at which were present, among others, the Hon. Montgomery Blair and General Garfield, then just elected to Congress. At this dinner the subject of General Rosecrans' removal was freely discussed, and there was a general expression that his removal was a grave mistake. By no one was this expression more forcibly stated than by General Garfield, who was loud in his praise of him as a military genius and an able General. Montgomery Blair was so much impressed by General Garfield's statement that he went to President Lincoln and used about the following argument: "Mr. President, I do not want to seem officious, but I was so forcibly impressed by a conversation I had that evening with a young member of Congress from Ohio, who, previous to his election was General Rosecrans' Chief of Staff, that I have come to you as a matter of duty to say that I think General Rosecrans' removal was a grave mistake. The gentlemen referred to impressed me so favorably as to his military ability and the positiveness of his declarations that I am fully convinced of his knowledge and judgment in the matter."

"Who is the gentleman?" the President is reported to have inquired. "Gen. Garfield replied, 'Mr. Blair.' " "General Garfield, why it was upon his statement of fact and representation more than anything else that his removal was based," said Mr. Lincoln, with an expression of surprise.

DENVER, March 10.

At Santa Fe, shortly before midnight, two men entered the laundry of Long Kee, placed a noose around his neck and nearly strangled him. Skobloff still Explaining.

LONDON, March 9.

Skobloff asserts that the address of the Serbian students was due, it not to the pen, at least to the collaboration of the fancy of the editor of La France. It had been prepared some four days when Skobloff arrived in Paris. His reply was frank and unreserved, as was to be expected from a man who did not suppose his words would be made public. He had said nothing, however, that was not whispered by everyone in Russia, even among the entourage of the Emperor. No one was more astonished than he was at the excitement his speech caused. Everyone sought to turn it to account, but more especially the party which is seeking to return to power in France. Even Madame Adam took a hand in it, to gratify her personal hatred against Bismarck, who had insulted her, as a woman, in the journals he controls. Thus, his speech was printed on fly sheets and sent to the regiments and fleets. He was so overwhelmed with visiting cards and orations from officers that he was plain. All thought war was imminent with Germany. From Germany he received piles of anonymous letters; some insulting, and some even accusing him of cowardice for returning by way of Austria. In reply to a question from Skobloff as to whether the Emperor would send for him, Ignatieff replied: The Emperor had taken no part whatever in his recall. It was simply an act of military discipline, with which His Majesty had nothing to do. Ignatieff added: "This will not prevent your seeing the Emperor, at a fitting moment, like all other officers of your rank."
